Campus Show Starts Birthday Ball Jan. 30

Leading Student Entertainers In Song, Dancing, Tumbling Acts

By CLARENCE LaROCHE

Plans are rapidly nearing completion for an imposing President's Birthday Ball, it was announced yesterday, as practically every prominent University stage star had been signed to appear on the show headlining the ball in Gregory Gym Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Bonnie Ruth Taylor, Pat O'Keefe and Walter Kerr, stars of many campus musical comedies, light operas, and Curtain Club plays, will appear in "Overture in Rose." Miss Taylor and Gene Hemmle will have the leading roles. They will be assisted by O'Keefe and Kerr.

"Satan Swingin'" is another musical number that will headline a campus singing star, as Boots Cullins takes the main role.

Frank Gardner and the Co-Ed Trio will get together for a feature in song called "Mexican Moments in Blue." Gardner needs no introduction to campus audiences, for he is a member of the Gene Hurt-Frank Gardner combine that specializes in typical Mexican music.

Dancers in the "Mexican Moments in Blue" number are Mary Frances Brown, Jackie Hempel, Cecelia Braden, Florence Shannon and Mary Catherine Groves.

Jimmy Valentine will give a song specialty as part of the "Mexican Moments" number.

"Men in Bronze," an acrobatic number, will find Bill Crenshaw and Wallace McClelland, both outstanding tumblers, in the title roles. Also along the tumbling line will appear Bobby McKinley and Chilly Lipscomb, the comic waltzers who scored heavily in "Time Staggerers On."

"Ambling in Opera" will present the irrepressible Kerr; "College Cabaret" will present O'Keefe as master of ceremonies, while Miss Groves and Miss Shannon do the collegiate strut, Valentine sings, and Jane Allen, at one time a feature singer on the Casa Manana program in Fort Worth, does a soft-shoe number.

"A Definition of Love" will find Mary Ellen Clark giving the play-by-play description. Sis and Bill Merritt and Rex Alcorn will do a tap-dance number.

Last but not least is the "Touch-down in Hades" skit as presented by the Longhorn grid stars. Jack Rhodes, Ned McDonald, Gilly Davis, Don Williams, Jack Crain, Carl Bage, Jack Hall, and Ted Thomas, who starred in "Time Staggerers On," will be the dancers.

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel and his Hill-billy Boys will open the evening's entertainment with a thirty-minute program. The floor show will last from 8:30 to 9:30 o'clock, after which the dance will begin. Balcony seats will be available for spectators.

Oil Show Offers $300 in Awards

Three hundred dollars in awards for technical papers presented on the student program of the biennial Oil World Exposition have been offered to students in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Louisiana engineering schools. The Exposition will be held in Houston April 24-29.

Howard E. Degler and Harry H. Power, professors in the University, are members of the drilling and production committee for the Exposition. Mr. Degler is also chairman of a sub-committee in charge of the student program.

Each school will be allowed two speakers, both of whom must be undergraduates. The paper must be acceptable to the committee as being along the lines of oil production, refining, or uses of petroleum products. In judging the winners, the paper will count half and the delivery will count half.

Names of students and titles of papers must be in by April 1 to be included in the program for the Exposition. Inquiries may be made of Mr. Degler.

Museum Open 6 Days Weekly

Exhibits Review History, Sciences

Exhibits in natural sciences and history await interested students and other citizens in the Texas Memorial Museum now open daily, except Monday, from 2 to 5 o'clock. The Museum is located at Twenty-fourth and Trinity Streets, one block north of the stadium.

The $600,000 structure, formally opened January 15, was paid for partly by state and national appropriations and partly by gifts from students and citizens.

The Museum has five divisions, namely, anthropology, botany, geology, history, and zoology. Members of the staff are as follows: E. H. Sellards, director; Eula Whitehouse, curator of botany and zoology; A. Garland Adair, curator of patriotic exhibits; Carl See MUSEUM, page 2

Women Students Meet Thursday

Miss Dorothy Gebauer, dean of women, announced Friday that the first convocation for new women students and transfers will be held on Thursday night from 7 until 8 o'clock in the Junior Ballroom of the Texas Union.

The presidents and leaders of the various organizations for women on the campus have been asked to speak on this occasion. Those who will take part in this are Bette Young, president of Orange Jackets; Val Jean Aldred, president of Mortar Board; Elizabeth Baker, president of U.T.S.A.; Helen Machemehl, head of the Y.W.C.A.; Virginia Vaughan, president of Alpha Lambda Delta; and Mary Ann Tuffly, president of Co-Ed Assembly. Mrs. Frances Seybolt will represent the intramurals for women.

Wisconsin Prof Joins U. T. Staff

Warren C. Price, of the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism, will be added to the department of Journalism for the spring term, Paul J. Thompson, chairman of the department, has announced.

Mr. Price, who is doing graduate work on his degree of doctor of philosophy at Wisconsin in addition to his teaching duties, will serve here only through the spring semester.

Before joining the staff of the University of Wisconsin, Mr. Price was engaged in newspaper work in Milwaukee, Wis., Toledo, Ohio, and Oklahoma City, Okla., for a period of eight years. He is married and has one child. He will arrive in Austin the latter part of next week.

'His Biggest Show Yet,' Life Shows Inauguration Pictures

"Life goes to a party," but Life also went to an inauguration. This week's issue of the Life magazine devotes five pages to show the people of the country how Texas took a governor.

A half page picture shows Governor W. Lee O'Daniel holding a towering platter of biscuits and Mike and Molly reaching for one as they all wink at the readers.

"A political nobody nine months ago, genial, strapping Wilbert Lee O'Daniel, 48, was already a legendary character in American politics when he moved into Texas' Governor's Mansion," Life says.

"His inauguration in the University of Texas football stadium January 17, followed by dancing in the streets, was his biggest show yet."

In succeeding pages the stadium

Not War, But Nature

Peace may reign in the Western Hemisphere, but Chile nevertheless had its share of death and destruction this week. Above is shown damage done by an earthquake at Talca, one of the many Chilean cities which were partly demolished. Many thousands of lives were lost.

Franco's Forces Bring 'Peace' To Barcelona, Then Push On

BARCELONA, Jan. 27.—(INS) Drastic decrees providing summary execution of murderers and assassins and internment in concentration camps of all persons hostile to his regime were promulgated by Generalissimo Francisco Franco today as his victorious insurgent troops surged northward and captured Badalona, strengthening their grip on Catalonia.

From his headquarters in the field, Franco appointed Brigadier-General Eladio Alvaras Arenas as military governor of Barcelona and authorized him to post throughout the city copies of a manifesto setting forth the terms of his "reintegration of the Spanish state."

Signed by General Davila, chief of Franco's northern army, the proclamation placed the city under insurgent martial law and annulled all decrees promulgated by the unseated Spanish government since July 18, 1936, the day the civil war started.

All civil and administrative contracts were declared null and void and Franco's military forces, land, sea and air, were constituted as legal administrators of justice throughout the conquered region.

Prisoners taken in battle and civilians surrendering after the occupation will be placed in concentration camps and their cases considered.

Persons known to be guilty of murder or assassination will be summarily executed. The proclamation concluded with the words: "I require from all most complete collaboration in restoration of the city," and warned that disregard

Exams to Open For Maritime Jobs

The United States Maritime Commission has announced that an open competitive examination to establish an eligible list of candidates for appointment as Deck Cadet or Engineer Cadet in merchant vessels will be held within the next few months.

Qualifications for admission to the examination include the following:

1. Applicants must be not less than 17 nor more than 25 years of age and unmarried American citizens who can produce evidence of good moral character.
2. Applicants must possess the following eight units from an accredited school: English (3), algebra (1), plane geometry (1), general science or chemistry (1), physics (1), American history (1). In addition, applicants must possess seven units of electives.
3. Candidates must be of normal size, sound condition, and free from physical defects, especially in sight, speech, and hearing.
4. Applicants must pass a mental test, physical examination, and an aptitude test.

The minimum pay for cadets is $50 per month. Wages and allowances are paid by steamship company employers. The American Merchant Marine is in no way connected with any branch of government service.

Additional information and application forms can be secured by writing the Supervisor Cadet Training, U. S. Maritime Commission, Washington, D. C., not later than March 1.

of the orders will be considered as "manifest hostility to the state."

A crowd estimated at thirty-five thousand jammed the Plaza de Cataluna at noon when the military authorities staged a mass meeting at which Generals Juan Yague and Jose Solchaga and other members of the high command were present.

The crowd accorded General Yague a terrific ovation. While the meeting was in progress, fleets of bombing planes returning from raids in the north flew over the Plaza, dipping low in salute.

Meanwhile, a huge army of workmen methodically scoured the city, tearing down all orders and decrees posted by the vanished Barcelona government as well as Syndicalist and other propaganda posters.

Franco's army continued to pour through the city in a triumphal procession. The city was full of soldiers, horses, pack-mules, artillery and motorized equipment.

The port area of the city is a shambles. This was the chief target of Franco's bombing planes during the long siege. Ships listed at crazy angles in the harbor and many waterfront buildings were destroyed.

Troops and army animals are quartered in the parks. Homeless civilians are sleeping by the thousands in the subways.

MADRID, Jan. 27.—(INS)—The armies of Government Spain will continue their struggle at any cost to the bitter end, government leaders in Madrid declared today.

May Combine On Educational Bills

Joint committees of the Senate and House of Representatives may hold hearings on the biennial appropriation bills for higher educational institutions, the judiciary, the state departments and the eleemosynary institutions if proposals now being discussed by members are adopted.

Senator Morris Roberts, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Representative E. H. Thornton Jr., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, have conferred on the possibility of organizing a joint committee to write the provisions which go on all the bills. They may also propose to their respective groups that the hearings by the two committees be combined.

Such a plan has been discussed in each session of the Legislature for a number of years but has never been put into operation.

The purpose as explained by members of the committee would be to prevent conflict in procedure so that when the bills are reported to the two houses they will, to a certain extent, reflect mutual views.

Special funds administered by the several institutions and departments will also be reviewed in the near future with the idea of bringing these expenditures under the direct supervision of the Legislature, it was announced.

The House committee has named February 7 as the date for hearing the requests of The University of Texas.

Aggie May Write For Texan; May Not

A "professional wager" concerning the University and A.&M. athletics was completed yesterday by R. L. Doss, editor of the A.&M. Battalion, and Pat Daniels, editor of The Daily Texan. Doss suggested the wager—which will "vitality affect" the "reading students" of one of the institutions—in yesterday's issue of the Battalion, and Daniels has accepted.

The terms of the bet: if Texas wins the first basketball game this year with the Aggies, the Battalion will print a story of the contest written by either Daniels or Clarence LaRoche, Texan sports editor. If A.&M. wins, the Texan will publish the game story written by Doss or the Battalion sports editor, "Jeep" Oates. The game will be played in College Station February 11.

"I rather doubt that the editor of the Texan will accept this bet," Doss said, "but I sincerely hope he will. The Battalion thinks Aggie athletes can step ahead of the University athletes in any major sport, so I'm willing to make Daniels a bet on the first A.&M.-Texas basketball game of the year."

In a letter to Editor Doss, Daniels said, "I am confident that the Texas basketball team will demonstrate, as Texas teams have in the past, the superiority of our team over the Aggie squads. Frankly, I am amazed that you have the courage to offer to make such a wager. I am sure that if I were in your position I would fear to do so, under the same conditions. And you may rest assured, I am most happy to accept your challenge—especially since it is against A.&M."

The wager grew out of the recent squabbles between the Battalion and the Texan over news stories and columns which have appeared in the two publications. The two editors believe that the bet will work better under this arrangement than any others because both papers will be able to carry the same story, thereby letting the student bodies of the two institutions "in" on the fun.

19 States Send Museum Visitors

Host to more than ten thousand visitors already, the Texas Memorial Museum opened its doors last week to visitors from nineteen states. Dr. E. H. Sellards, director, said.

The four-story, $600,000 building, built by state and federal funds, University of Texas alumni, and American Legion contributions, was formally opened on the campus two days before the inauguration of Governor W. Lee O'Daniel. Five natural science exhibits are housed in the building.

First week's visitors registered from Iowa, California, Georgia, Ohio, Kentucky, Minnesota, New Mexico, Michigan, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, New York, Kansas, Indiana, Wyoming, Illinois, Arkansas, Alabama, and North Carolina.

Ancient Greek and Roman Relics Displayed by Dr. Battle

Dr. W. J. Battle, professor of classical languages, has a display of relics from ancient Greece and Rome in a case outside his office, on the top floor of the Tower.

The top of the four shelves has about twenty-three little figures of Egyptian bronze. These gods and animals were worshiped as deities.

On another shelf are several Roman lamps which came from about the First Century A. D. Six of them are of shallow earthenware and in the bottom are ornamental designs.

One figure, about five inches high, is a slave on which the features can hardly be distinguished. It is Graeco-Roman from the First Century B. C.

Several pieces of Roman glassware resemble shades of Spanish and Mexican blue glass and represent the First and Second Centuries A. D.

Hardly usable for the craps shooters are six Roman dice of ivory which are so worn they may be distinguished only as cubic shaped.

Several Roman toilet instruments of bone or ivory resemble spoons and chopsticks and only a strong imagination could find a use for them in this age.

15 Petitions Start Today

Miss Aldred Is Optimistic

More than two hundred students who have already paid their second semester registration fees have signed the Benedict Memorial Fund cards made available in the registration lines by Mortar Board, sponsors of the memorial to the late president of the University.

As the Bursar's Office opened Friday morning, 401 students had already paid their fees and out of this number 160 students had signed the pledges. The number reached the 200 mark before the day was over, Val Jean Aldred, Mortar Board president, said Friday night.

"The most pleasing thing about this number," Miss Aldred said, "is that many of those signing knew nothing of the plan before they entered the registration lines. We've been more than pleased so far and these early results make us optimistic when we think of the several thousand students who will pay fees next week."

Beginning this morning, fifteen petitions will be circulated by members of Alpha Phi Omega, honorary service organization. The headings on these petitions will explain the purpose of the Benedict Memorial Fund to students who have not seen the fund's newspaper publicity.

"Although we are asking students to sign these petitions, their signatures will in no way place a financial obligation upon them, but instead is merely an endorsement of the fund," Miss Aldred explained.

The fund, endorsed by sororities and fraternities, by members of the faculty and University staff, and by the Board of Regents, is planned by Mortar Board and Friars as a lasting memorial to the late Dr. H. Y. Benedict.

The fund will be placed at the disposal of the President of the University and the Board of Regents, to be distributed in how they think best to aid University students.

Participation in the establishment of the fund may be made by students registering for the second semester. Representatives of Mortar Board will have cards at the registration lines and students may, if they desire, pledge $1 or less of their general property deposit. This pledge in no way will interfere with pledges made earlier in the semester, such as to the Cactus and the Engineering Loan Fund.

Ayres to Discuss Liberty Sunday

Beginning Sunday, January 29, and on each consecutive Sunday through February 19, a series of discussions will be held at the First Congregational Church, 408 West Twenty-third Street, pertaining to Christianity's part in preserving liberty, conserving resources, extending social security, and improving housing. Dr. Clarence E. Ayres, professor of economics, will lead the first discussion on "The Meaning of Liberty."

Sunday, February 5, Dr. Clarence A. Wiley, professor of economics, will talk on "The Proper Use of Resources."

Other discussions to be given are "Why Social Security," on February 12, and "Homes and Housing in Austin," on February 19.

The topics for discussion were suggested by Maury Maverick when he preached at the church on January 8.

Bruins Out to Stop Owl Quintet Tonight

Special to the Texan. WACO, Jan. 27.—The Baylor Bears will be battling for second place in the topsy-turvy Southwest Conference flag race Saturday night when they go up against the fast-stepping Rice Owls in Houston.

At the present time, the Owls have a half-game lead over the third place Bears, but the Bruins will be fired with the hope of stopping the onslaught of the Rice five and taking a permanent hold on the runner-up spot before they depart for their crucial two-game series with Arkansas in Fayetteville the following week-end.

Both clubs have dropped only one game in the loop play so far this season, the Owls losing a two-point decision to the pace-setting S.M.U. Mustangs while the Bruins were dropping a 36-to-31 tilt to the Texas Longhorns. Rice had previously beaten the Texas crew and will probably rule a slight favorite in the clash for second place honors.

The young Baylor team is still the big question mark of the conference play. With sophomores carrying the brunt of the attack, Coach Ralph Wolf's charges have played in and out ball in every contest, except the opening tussle with T.C.U.

In the Texas game, the Bruins built up a slight lead in the earlier part of the game and then the soph stars around whom this year's club is built faltered badly before the wear and tear of the rough and tough league play.

In their last outing against the T.C.U. Frogs, the Bears piled up a 28-to-12 lead at the halfway mark, and then had to stand off a last half scoring spree to squeeze with a narrow 35-to-31 win. The Bruins were held in check for sixteen minutes in the final period before they were able to toss in a field goal.

Both clubs have been weak in defensive play and Saturday night's clash should be a wild offensive battle for second place, with Grady Vaughn, Baylor's point-getting sophomore, waging a personal battle with Frank Carswell, the loop leader for scoring honors.

Joe Terry, great soph forward who led the way in the Bears' opening game and who has seen only one minute of play in the last three games, will be ready to go after being held back with a hard cold.

Terry will open at one forward post along with Pete Creasy, while Happy Shahan and Grady Vaughn will be in at the guard slots and Frank Bryski holding down the pivot position.

Stopping Norris, Tiger Ace, Is Longhorn Problem Tuesday

By CLARENCE LAROCHE
Texas Sports Editor

WHEN the University Longhorns take to the mat for their charity game with the St. Edward's University Tigers next Tuesday night, they will be confronted with the problem of stopping one of basketball's highest scoring players.

The high-scoring St. Ed forward is Ed Norris, Indiana boy. So far, the phenomenal Norris has averaged approximately 16 points per game—a respectable figure in any man's league. Ahead this season, he has amassed a total of 47 points in three games. The Steers' leading ace, Bouncing Bobby Moers, has scored 34 in four games.

If the remainder of the Tigers were half or even one-third as potent as Norris, the St. Ed boys would be the class of their league.

Jack Gray, coach of the Longhorns, has indicated he would start Oran Spears, stellar guard, against Norris. Should the reliable Spears fail to adequately check the Tiger ace, Moers probably will be switched to guard him.

Ken King, the sharpshooter of Gray's sophomore corps, probably will start the St. Edward's game at a forward post. King, a fine offensive player, may not be able to break into the starting line-up regularly because his defensive game needs polishing and because of his general sophomore inexperience.

Other starters beside King, Spears, and Moers should be Willie Tate, captain, and W. D. (Speedy) Houpt.

Besides the Longhorn-Tiger game, the Austin High Maroons and the School for the Deaf will meet in a preliminary. Both games are being sponsored by the national sports council for the benefit of the infantile paralysis fund. Half the receipts will go to the national infantile paralysis fund and the other half will remain in the county fund.

Blanket Tax will not be honored, and even the coaches and the press will pay admission. Ticket rates are 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for college students, and a dime for high school and grade students.

Luckless Frog Cagers Battle Exams Now

Special to the Texan. FORT WORTH, Jan. 27.—The Horned Frog cagers have quit basketball for a ten-day round of study and final examinations.

"I sure hope the boys lay aside that 'almost' habit when they go up against those finals!" Coach Mike Brumbelow explained.

"We have had our ears pinned back only once in five games. The Baylor Bears caught us in the opener with only three days of practice and beat us 34 points. A little more than two weeks later, we held them to a 4-point victory."

"We forced the Mustangs—top flight in the conference—into an overtime period for their 2-point victory," Brumbelow pointed out. "Rice, second place in the standings, was well satisfied to finish 3 points ahead. The Aggies downed us 6 points, but it was a battle all the way."

Schmeling After Joe Louis Again

German's Manager Eager for Match

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(INS)—The list of candidates now eagerly seeking an opportunity to get splashed all over the premises by Joe Louis today was increased by one, with announcement by Joe Jacobs that Max Schmeling, the former champion, never will be content again until finally he has met the current title-holder for the third time. Jacobs is going to exercise all the influence at his disposal in an effort to bring about the match.

This may be more important than it appears to be on the surface insofar as it affects the heavyweight situation, for Schmeling will arrive here from Germany late next week and immediately will find himself besieged by Jacobs and Promoter Herman Taylor of Philadelphia with a virtual demand that he meet Tony Galento, the place, Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium; the time, the sooner the better.

Jacobs thus stands today as probably the key man in preparations for keeping Louis busy, for he manages both Schmeling and Galento and sooner or later must be called in by Promoter Mike Jacobs to talk some fight talk, inasmuch as within a few months Galento is going to be generally recognized as the outstanding challenger, a role already assigned to him by the National Boxing Association.

Manager Jacobs has no way of telling what Schmeling's reaction will be when the proposition is made to him. All Jacobs knows is that the bout would draw about a half a million dollars.

Chief, curator of anthropology; and Lorene Gregg, secretary.

The entrance opens directly into Memorial Hall, around the walls of which are displayed the flags and seals of the six nations which in turn ruled Texas. The collections here include early Texas costumes, articles, and documents, and early English china. To the south of the Hall is the Pioneer Room, which houses collections pertaining to frontier range life in Texas, and a series of pictures illustrating the Story of the Range.

The North Room on the second floor contains thirteen dioramas illustrating the history of Texas from 1718 to 1876. These depict the founding of the Spanish missions, the fall of the Alamo, the capture of Santa Anna, Peach Point Plantation, the Mier Expedition into Mexico, the annexation of Texas, the Battle of Sabine Pass, and a frontier trading post. Two others show the peace conference between the Comanches and a Texas cattleman and Texas Rangers camp after the Civil War.

The botany and zoology exhibits are on the third floor. In the south room are the habitat groups. Cases contain mainly birds and shells. Large sections of Texas woods obtained for the Centennial are exhibited, and the wall cases contain various forms of plant life. Insects, birds, and animals, together with paintings of wild flowers—complete these divisions.

Anthropology exhibits include both ethnological and archaeological materials. Ethnological collections include Sumatran household implements, Chinese and Guatemalan costumes, Alaskan baskets, and costumes from India and Bengal.

Pottery, implements of all kinds, and skeletal remains are exhibited in the archaeological materials from Texas, South America, Africa, Italy, and Egypt.

Geological sciences, including seven large relief maps of Texas and adjacent parts of New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Mexico, fill the first floor. Dioramas show the marine life of the Cretaceous period and five Texas oil fields. Additional displays include paleontological and mineralogical collections assembled by the Bureau of Economic Geology. Two cases show some of the most famous Texas meteorites. Indicating the association of man with the extinct elephant is a collection of artifacts and fossil elephant bones from Roberts County.

The Theater-Goer

By BOYD SINCLAIR

Texan Amusements Editor

Dr. Henry W. Harper, whose red bow tie has been the subject of newspaper columnists like Walter Winchell and the late O. O. McIntyre, was a clerk in his father's drug store in Boonville, Mo., many years ago when he identified a captured man as a member of the James band.

one freshman once upon a time believed. To him, University tradition says, its peculiar shade is a symbol of the life-giving strength of the blood.

Dr. Harper was serving as a drug apprentice in his father's store in Boonville, now a city of about 6,500 people, one night when he filled a prescription for two men. The next night at Otterville, a village of about 425 population about twenty-five miles southwest of Boonville, Jesse James and his gang robbed a train. This town is about ten miles east of Sedalia where the outlaw lived for a time during his sixteen years of crime. One of the men was captured. The young drug clerk identified the captured man as one of those who had secured the filling of the prescription in his father's store.

Tradition of the campus also has it that Dr. Harper has never forsaken the wearing of his tie save on three occasions. Jesse Jones of Houston prevailed upon him to wear a white one at a dinner once, he forsook it at the marriage of his daughter, and he cast it aside in the days when professors lectured to their students in Prince Albert coats.

Boonville, where Dr. Harper worked in the drug store, is almost in the center of Missouri. Pineville, where most of the epic melodrama of "Jesse James" was filmed, a hamlet of 422 souls, is in the southeast corner of the state, ten miles north of the Arkansas border and fifteen miles east of the Oklahoma border.

Last summer, Henry King, director of the picture, had a difficult time filming it, beset as he was by tourists in the camera's range. The citizens of Pineville, dressed up in poke bonnets and weeds of the frontier, welcomed them, nevertheless, as they brought in more money than Jesse ever stole. To top it off, they had the satisfaction a few weeks ago of seeing themselves make their screen debut in the world premiere of "Jesse James" at Tulsa, Okla.

Dean Harper, now professor of chemistry and dean emeritus of the Graduate School, related his story of how he identified the member of the James band in a speech to Rho Chi, national honorary pharmaceutical society in the spring of 1937.

Dr. Harper's red tie has nothing to do with Communism, as

Crosby Deserts Beebe Clan For Slapstick in Latest Opus

By BERNARD SEIGLE

Texan Amusements Staff

"PARIS HONEYMOON"—At the State based on a story by Angela Sherwood. Screen play by Frank Butler and Don Hartman. Music and lyrics by Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger. Photographed by Karl Struss. Produced by Harlan Thompson. Directed by Frank Tuttle. Released by Paramount. The cast follows: Lucky Lawton, Bing Crosby, Countess De Remi, Shirley Ross, Peter Karlova, Franciska Gaal, Ernest Figg, Akim Tamiroff, The Ancient, Edward Everett Horton, Siska, Ben Blue, Victor Kilian, Count de Remi, Gregory Gays.

The genial Mr. Bing Crosby deserts the sanctuary of the Beebe clan for an unorthodox hop to a mythical madhouse called Puschland, which could be, if you are allergic to names, nothing but one of those quaint regions on the Hollywood map where whimsy and slapstick are king and queen and the humor is distinctly of the old school. I call Mr. Crosby's visit to the land of comical stereotypes unorthodox because after his flashing, richly human role in "Sing You Sinners" what occurs in "Paris Honeymoon" produces the dual effect of having seen a Frank Capra film one month and waking up with a Mack Sennett headache two months later. Before polemics kills the issue, I should like to say that I don't regard Mr. Crosby as an actor. He is a witty, polished, idiomatic type, who, with careful direction and a clever script, can present a genuinely engaging character; witness, for instance, "Sing You Sinners." As long as he has his voice I don't imagine the girls at Macy's will struggle for the strychnine, but discretion in choice and treatment of stories means the difference between crooning as a reserve.

Mr. Crosby sings four numbers in "Paris Honeymoon," the best of which is "I Have Eyes"; what goes on in between is gibberish with gossamer vengeance. Before he chooses Franciska Gaal (who goes after this coy, elfin business with malice toward all) instead of Shirley Ross, the slapstick, funny at the outset, assumes major and threatening proportions. Akim Tamiroff overacts so beautifully he can call Leo Carillo "Tovarich" any time he wants to, and Mr. Crosby has become completely submerged, his Kraft Music Hall heritage a dimmed memory. What "Paris Honeymoon" has is a plethora of slapstick and 1926 comedy ideas and a paucity of originality and sprightliness, but Friday's audience roared at most of it. After the ushers have picked your hysterical body out of the aisle, you may call me a "damned critic!" Ah, destiny!
