Pharmacy Booths Shown for Meet

Varied Display Arranged Entirely by Students

A public showing of the University of Texas College of Pharmacy exhibition, arranged for the entertainment of delegates to the meeting of the Interscholastic League, began Friday night at 7 o'clock in Chemistry Building 1. This is a presentation of the work done by students in modern, well-equipped laboratories. Booths containing individual displays are under the care of members of the classes.

The artistic work has been planned and executed by Joe Okies, Manuel Sanchez, Walter Bock, Elsie Miller, Helen Miller, and Thomas North. It includes hand-drawn and decorated labels for articles, background scenery depicting the nature of the display, colorful decorations, and lettering.

Black and gray is the color motif of the cosmetic display showing the preparations bearing Co-ed and Varsity trademarks. This exhibit includes facial lotions, creams, powders, brilliantines, rouges, and shaving creams, etc., all student-made. Eleanor Nipper, junior in the College of

with the buzzard

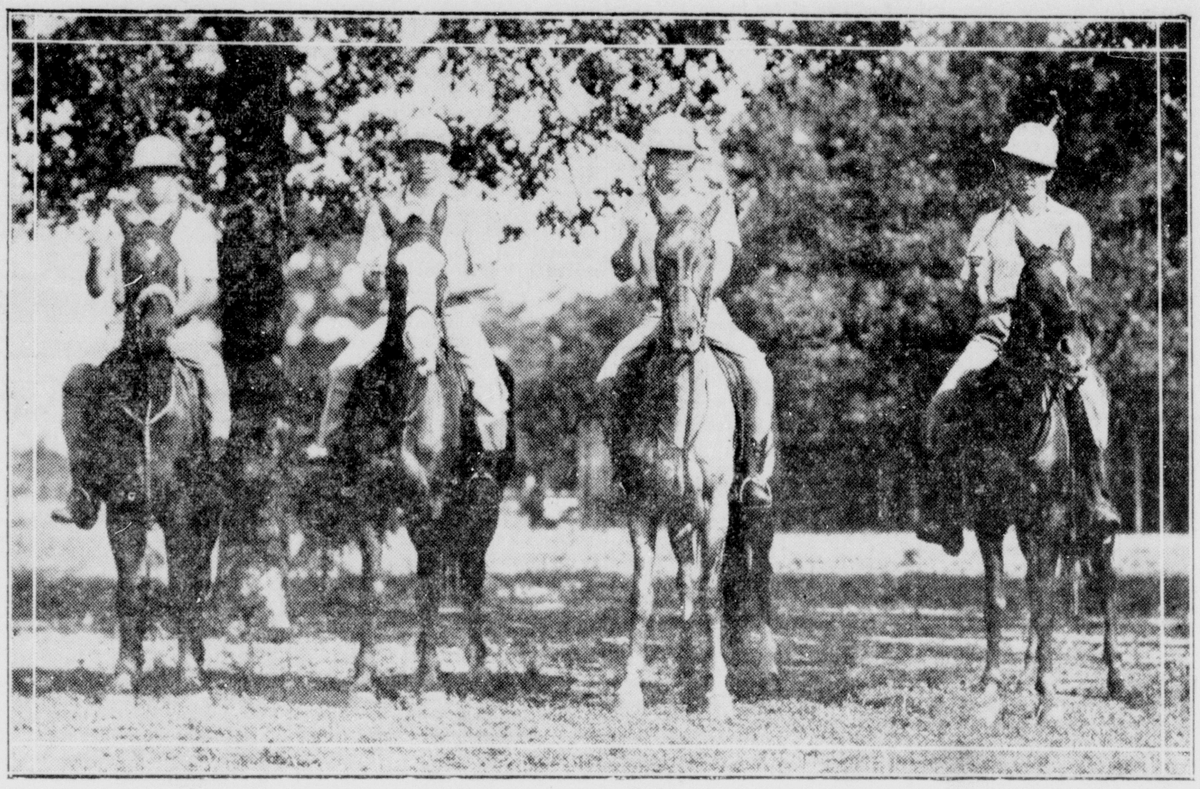
WALTER PAYNE seems a bit subdued this year. Maybe he misses the "shining" example of last year's Buzzard. LOUISE LATTIMER is still going strong, however.

HAL ARMSTRONG displays his knowledge of machinery by stamping out the bumps in the Stadium track . . . while RAYMOND KELLER stands around in a bewildered sort of way, not quite sure whether to come in out of the rain or not.

SUE REESE and OCIE KELLEY, today's that-way couple . . . almost on a par with the Haltom-Dozier pair.

And a big bronx cheer for LOUISE "MRS. ASTOR" MOSS and EDITH WILL SCOTT, although we hate to put them in the same sentence.

They Play in First Texas Intercollegiate Polo Match Today



The University polo team which meets a student team from Southwestern University this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Camp Mabry field in the first intercollegiate polo game ever held in Texas. The University team recently competed for the Cabiness trophy and was runner-up, losing to the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Cavalry Yellow Jackets in the last game. Reading from left to right: Vernon Cook, captain, Mike Butler, Jimmie Burr, and Jack Adams.

Dallas Orchestra Featured Tonight

Bennett, Seven Aces Play At University Dance

Ralph Bennett and His Seven Aces, an eleven-piece dance orchestra with headquarters in the Baker Hotel at Dallas, will play for the All-University Dance at Gregory Gymnasium tonight, Charles Zivley, manager of the dance, said Friday.

This orchestra was chosen recently to play for the spring dance of the Ross Volunteers at Texas A. & M. social event at College Station. They also played at dances given by Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Kappa Epsilon here this spring, and many who heard them requested that they be brought here for a "German."

The orchestra is being brought here by Bernard Goldberg, representative of the Music Corporation of America.

Zivley expects a large attendance at the event because of Interscholastic League visitors in the city and the fact that the present semester is nearly over.

22 Women Delegates Sleep in Gymnasium

One Interscholastic Record Broken; Track Finals Today

By WILBUR EVANS
Texan Sports Staff

Breaking one record that has stood for four years and approaching several others, 692 high school thinly clads from all sections of the State competed in the preliminaries of the twenty-second annual track and field meet held Friday morning at Memorial Stadium. The record in the javelin throw was shattered by Gilliam Graham of Brownfield with a toss of 184 feet and 9 inches. This bettered by six feet the mark set by Hill Hodges, present captain of Longhorn track team, in 1928.

Black of Masonic Home in Fort Worth lacked one-tenth of a second of equalling the record in the 440-yard dash. Erwin of Lufkin tossed the shot 50 feet and 9 inches to approach the present record of 51 feet 2-12 inches. Erwin also qualified for the finals in the discus and the javelin. Three other contestants tossed the shot more than 49 feet.

Press Gathering Breaks Previous Records Friday

146 High School Delegates Represent 28 State Papers

Continues Today

Election of New Officers Concludes Fifth Meeting

Attendance records for the Interscholastic League Press Conference were shattered Friday when 146 delegates representing 28 high school newspapers in Texas registered for the fifth annual convention of that organization. Last year 110 delegates, the largest registration up to that time, attended.

Four speakers appeared before the conference yesterday. An informal banquet last night at the Austin Club, Norwood Building, climaxed the first half of the two-day meeting of high school journalists. Registrations for the banquet numbered 135. Winners in news writing, copyreading, and headline writing contests were announced at the banquet.

Program for the press conference Saturday morning will be given at the Texas Bible Chair, where all meetings were held Friday. The program opened with an editorial writing contest at 8:30 o'clock. Wendell O'Neal, manager of the O'Neal Advertising Agency in Austin, will make an address on his profession. "Some Phases of Newspaper Make-Up" will be discussed by DeWitt C. Reddick, adjunct professor of journalism in the University. Group discussions and a business meeting during which officers for the coming year will be elected will close the convention.

Thompson, chairman of the University department of journalism, speaking on "If I Were Circulation Manager of a High School Newspaper."

During the afternoon session Alex Murphree, journalism graduate of the University and now sponsor of The Jefferson Declaration, Thomas Jefferson High School, San Antonio, spoke on "Humor and Its Use in the High School Paper." William L. McGill, University lecturer in editorial writing, spoke on "Editorial Subjects and Style."

Officers of the Interscholastic League Press Conference are Marjorie Nelson, president, from Sam Houston High School, Houston; Mack Machen, vice president, from Abilene High School; and Harriet Mallory, secretary-treasurer, from Palestine High School. Election of officers for next year will be held at 11:30 o'clock.

League Meet Goes Into Third Day of Contests; 2,000 Visitors Listed

With all preliminary events in athletics and debating having been finished last night, Interscholastic Leaguers will enter the last day of competition today. More than 2,000 visitors had registered by yesterday afternoon. All delegates were accommodated with lodgings, Jimmie Lanham, committee chairman, reported last night.

Activities will begin this morning at 7:30 o'clock with a State meeting for the discussion of rules and regulations of contests scheduled at the University Commons following a breakfast for faculty representatives. Proposals to limit the county and district meets to two wek-ends and to re-district the schools represented in the Interscholastic League will come up for discussion at this time.

Finals will be held in the following events: boys' tennis, singles and doubles; girls' tennis, singles and doubles; boys' and girls' debates; all track and field events.

Football regulations were discussed by Texas high school coaches meeting last night at the Austin High School Gymnasium. The one-year transfer rule and the eight semester rule which have already been passed were considered. These rules go into effect September, 1933. The first stipulates that a student will not be eligible in athletics until one year after becoming a resident of a school district regardless of whether he has moved with his family or not, while the latter makes ineligible any student eight semesters after he has enrolled as a freshman.

Botanists Open Flower Exhibit

Nearly 400 Wild Varieties Shown at Laboratory

The wild flower show opened Friday morning in Biological Laboratory 224. Between 375 and 400 different Texas wild flowers are on display. Among the most interesting ones are the members of the bed straw family. According to legends, the hay in the stable where Christ was born was made of these flowers.

Representing the min family are the rattlesnake flower and Drummond's skullcap. These flowers are noteworthy for their shape, the first resembling the rattles of the rattlesnake and the second, a miniature skullcap.

Water Plants Shown

Several water plants are in the group. The water milfoil and the duckweed grow only in water. The duckweed is a tiny flower which has not roots and floats on the water.

Several varieties of phlox attract attention because of their unusual beauty. Texas is noted for the many kinds of phlox that thrive here. More than 125 varieties are to be found in the State.

Among the other flowers are such well known ones as orchids, yuccas, cactus, daisies, thistles wild petunias, Indian paint-brush, and poison ivy. The poison ivy is set apart under a large glass jar, so there is a chance to get a safe close-up of this famous flower.

More than two hundred visitors had registered at the show early Friday afternoon.

Visiting Teachers Hurt in Auto Crash

Miss Hallie D. Walker and Miss Henrietta Eisenlohr, teachers in journalism in Dallas schools, who are in Austin attending the Press Conference of the Interscholastic League meet, were injured in an automobile accident on Harris Park Avenue at noon Friday. The couple were enroute to the home of Mrs. Trigg Twichell, with whom Miss Eisenlohr is staying, when the accident occurred.

Miss Eisenlohr was driving north on Harris Park Avenue when her car collided with one driven by G. H. Hotfelder, who was going east on East Thirty-second Street. None of the occupants of either auto were seriously injured, although both cars were damaged.

Miss Walker is a guest of Mrs. Margaret K. Kress, instructor in Romance languages.

Tax Exemption

Professors in state-supported universities are not to be taxed on their incomes, according to the new decision of the United States government. The decision was the result of an appeal by a professor, who claimed that the the state university is a governmental function.

Employes of private schools will not be allowed this exemption. But it is almost impossible to approximate the number that will be affected in the State-supported schools of Texas. The exempted amount depends on the size of the family; and it is hard to estimate the saving.

The Board of Tax Appeals, in rendering this decision, reversed a former decision. It is on the basis of a decision of the courts that a school is a governmental institution and not a proprietary one. In the past, when education was not so commonly supported by the state, it is likely that a different decision would have been rendered.

Exemption of employes of the state is the only sensible policy that can be followed. Otherwise higher salaries would have to be paid, which would be nothing more than the state government paying taxes to the national government.

Recognition for Webb

"The Great Plains" by Professor W. P. Webb has been selected one of the fifty most outstanding books of the year 1931. This selection was made by a number of the most outstanding men in literary and historical fields in the United States. No greater honor can be given an author than the recognition by this American Library Association award.

Mr. Webb has been working on the book for several years; and in his work he has given the world an entirely new point of view regarding the West. His thesis was worked out when he was working on a history of the Texas Rangers. While studying the influence of the six-shooter on the history of Texas, he had a vision of the entirely different conditions that had to be met in the West from those in the East. The windmill, the six-shooter, the barbed wire fence, and many other innovations were the result of the effort to conquer the arid West. Without them its settlement could not have been effected.

The book is probably the greatest contribution to the history of the West since Turner and Paxson. It has met with almost universal praise; and on the basis of this book, Mr. Webb has become one of the most outstanding historians on the Great Plains.

'Just Too Dirty'

When the Yale News recently commented editorially on the fact that the reason college men do not enter politics is because it is "just too dirty," the New York Herald Tribune, curious to find out whether the attitude at Yale was also that of students in other universities invited the editors of certain other representative college newspapers to comment on the editorial in question. The publication of these comments seems to show that the great majority of college men do not take the attitude they do toward politics because of its so called "dirtiness" but merely because they are too often "not interested."

The keynote of all the responses was sounded by the editorial of Duke University Chronicle who says "the standard of political ethics is relatively low because the brilliant man finds greater remuneration for his services in fields other than politics." Although low ethics might have some bearing on this failure to enter politics as a life service, the point might be made that it is up to the college graduate, who is more often than not better fitted for a political career than others, to take up the challenge which is offered in the present day condition of politics and look upon such a career as one dedicated to public service rather than to mere personal gain.

Certainly in other professions the fact that some isolated cases of malpractice has been brought to light has not deterred those interested from going ahead and entering the field they desired, and the college graduate of today should not allow the highly publicized examples of graft and corruption—true though they may be—to keep him from entering upon a political career.

SUPPOSEDLY WORTHWHILE ORGANIZATIONS

Argument at its best is merely the statement of truths which of their own character carry weight. It is only when doubt enters the mind of the proponent of an idea that he need resort to thundering phraseology and overemphatic vituperation.

Some slothful thought has been given to the matter of the multiplicity of organizations on the Hill. They are all wonderful, some affirm; others, that they are entirely superfluous. Both sides have their cases.

The "club" has its justification in that it provides an opportunity for intimate and organized championship. If the club is organized for the purpose of discussing foreign affairs then this club has the advantage of this common ground of interest. Amphoterothen, the Di and Phi, Epsilon Phi Delta, the Polity Forum, the International Relations Club, and others are admirable efforts to stimulate and direct serious thinking. Another justification (?) is that a man can be rated by the number of clubs he is elected to. Still another, the existence of many clubs presages the creation of many presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, and so forth. This training in leadership is valuable. These points are the main planks of the clubman's case.

But enough has been said against these organizations to reveal a rather strong feeling that they and other organizations are superfluous.

One group of clubs which no one tries to justify intelligently is that to which the Bulls, Sheiks, and "13" Club belong. These clubs do nothing, represent nothing, and are expensive. Their initiations are childish, tiresome, and irritating. They are "rah rah" without having any of the vividness of "rah -rah"-ness at its best (or worst). All in all, they are, on a presumably serious campus, superfluous.

Another group of organizations, that to which Epsilon Phi Delta and the like belong, are supposedly serious, forward-looking groups of thinking men. But why so many of them? As it is there is an almost exact duplication of membership in these clubs. So it works out that Jim James or Alex Alexander pays his ten dollar (more or less) fees to one, two, three, ad infinitum, treasuries so that he will have the chance to discuss the sales tax and the Chinese situation once, twice, three times, in different rooms but with the same men. This would be laughable if it weren't such a real problem.

The "activity" consideration, that is, joining one group after another in order to get some of that evanescent prestige which comes with lots of activities, is anything but a laudable one. For it places a premium on pan-handles and relegates achievement of the real sort to a secondary and inconspicuous position.

An integration of all these so-called thoughtful groups, a re-scaling of the financial structures, deletion of the "rah rah" stuff, and an emphasis on the supreme importance of sincere and thorough thought and activity—this is the ideal.

—Daily Tar Heel.

SCIENCE WORSHIPPERS

We are certainly living in a science worshipping age. The minute a book by Millikan, Jeans or Eddington comes off the press it is snapped up by a science hungry public. When foreign scientists visit our shores, they are mobbed by this same public, as was the case with Professor Einstein when he came over to study at Pasadena last year. The press plays upon this feeling and we are inundated, every week with news of the latest scientific discovery, which usually never lives up to the glowing prophecies, which are flamboyantly displayed on its front pages.

In the midst of all this excitement one wonders if science is not being overemphasized today. The search for truth is a noble endeavor, but it is possible that there is no absolute truth, and that it is purely relative, as Luigi Pirandello, the Italian playwright, emphasizes again and again. The money and the time that is spent in scientific endeavor might better be spent in alleviating the misery that is rampant at present.

Science is certainly enthroned too high, in a pinnacle that it does not deserve. Human happiness has, on the other hand been underestimated. Why not transfer some of this surplus energy into this field? There are certainly many opportunities for this today in all social fields.

In the final analysis science is only descriptive and mathematical. It merely describes what occurs, but does not tell why. We must adopt a teleological attitude to explain anything in this universe. Taking all this into consideration, we must surely realize that this idolization of science is false and that it must be relegated to its proper place in the scheme of things. Science is necessary, of that there can be no doubt, but what one pleads for, is that it receive its tribute from humanity at large—that it be neither over- nor under-emphasized, something that humans seem to find difficult to do. The "aurea mediocritas" of the Latin Poet is difficult to seize.

COLLEGE CONVERSATION

Conversation, as well as being the best mode of conveying thoughts, ideas, and beliefs, is the key to a person's culture. Whether he is crude or dull, refined or educated, can be determined with almost uncanny accuracy after a few minutes of conversation.

The amount of slang one hears on a college campus is shocking to the uninitiated. Students seem to enjoy using slang, and many of them use it excessively. However, it is nevertheless true that the average college student does have a good basic and technical knowledge of the English language.

Critics who believe that the college student of today is juvenile in his choice of words and his construction of sentences should enter into a discussion with him. They might be surprised to find that the average student is able to converse intelligently concerning current events, economic and social conditions, sports and the classics. The critic then rightly may infer that the use of slang by collegians is merely an attempt to find fresh and new expressions, and that the college youth can converse in other than poor English.

THEATERS

"LETTY LYNTON" — Joan Crawford, Robert Montgomery, Nils Asther, today through Tuesday. At the Paramount.

"SHE WANTED A MILLIONAIRE" — Joan Bennett, Spencer Tracy, James Kirkwood, today through Tuesday; plus "When the Horns Blow," one-act play, and "Polyhymnian Nights," fantasy, presented on the stage by Polyhymnian, last time tonight, 8:45 o'clock. "Symphony of Six Million," Ricardo Cortez, Irene Dunne midnight preview tonight, 11:30 o'clock. At the Hancock.

"WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND" (C) — Jackie Cooper, Chic Sale, Ralph Graves, Dorothy Peterson, last times today. "The World and the Flesh," George Bancroft, Miriam Hopkins, Oscar Apfel, midnight matinee opening tonight, 11:30 o'clock, and continuing Sunday through Wednesday. At the Queen.

"FOLLOW THE LEADER" — Ed Wynn, today only. "Murders in the Rue Morgue," Bela Lugosi, Sidney Fox, Sunday and Monday. At the Texas.

Estimates: A, great; B, good; C, fair.

Opening Today

"LETTY LYNTON," technically co-starring Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery but probably a Joan Crawford picture, will be on the Paramount Theater screen today through Tuesday with a story about a girl and her two loves, how they interfere with one another, and what she does about it. Nils Asther is the man who makes company a crowd. Drama on Park Avenue, with complications, is the menu.

"SHE WANTED A MILLIONAIRE," and Joan Bennett gets one (James Kirkwood), in the picture which will be current at the Hancock Theater today through Tuesday, only to discover he is a modern Blue Beard, whereupon it becomes necessary for the prize-winning beauty to content herself with a young railroad man who can tell Blue Beard where his ticket ends. The ultimate lover is played by Spencer Tracy.

"FOLLOW THE LEADER," an extract of several of the stage productions of that chief of zanies, Ed Wynn, whom the Broadway of New York has looked much upon and pronounced excruciatingly funny, will be on the Texas Theater screen today only. Without much plot, it is the most foolish and craziest of crazy fun, comparable with that of the Four Marx Brothers and of Wheeler and Woolsey. There are songs.

Midnight Matinees

"THE WORLD AND THE FLESH," George Bancroft's latest picture, will be seen in a midnight matinee opening tonight at 11:30 o'clock at the Queen Theater, where it will continue Sunday through Wednesday. For the showing tonight, arrangements have been completed by Manager L. O. Daniel, Jr., to turn a percentage of each admission toward the Olympic fund. Miriam Hopkins plays opposite Mr. Bancroft in a tale of the Russian Revolution.

"SYMPHONY OF SIX MILLION," from the book by Fannie Hurst, will be previewed at the Hancock Theater tonight at 11:30 o'clock. Ricardo Cortez and Irene Dunne have leading roles in a panoramic story depicting much of the intimate lives of New York's multitudes, but the sympathetic view of the city's millions is pointed by concentration on the life career of a young doctor and the crippled girl he loves.

Steer Tracksters Score 66 to Top Rice Owls and Aggies

Feathered Tribe Ends Second; 2 Marks Fall

By HAL SAYLES
Texan Sports Staff

The University of Texas Longhorns nosed out the Rice Owls and Texas A. & M. Friday afternoon at Memorial Stadium by the score of 66 1-2 to 60 2-3 to 44 5-6 points as two Southwest Conference records were bettered.

The first record to fall was in the shot put when "Honk" Irwin, big Aggie sophomore, tossed the sixteen pound ball 50 feet 1 inch. Bruke of the Owls, who placed second, holds the record at 48 feet 1 inch.

Hale, star Rice broad jumper, leaped 24 feet 7 inches to better the mark he set in the conference meet last season by 9 inches.

Holloway Wins

A strong breeze out of the south aided the runners in the shorter dashes, but it played havoc with the records on the longer runs. Holloway, Rice dash star, took the 100 yard dash in the fast time of 9.8 seconds, and a few minutes later he copped the 220 yard dash in 21.2 seconds. He was also anchor man on the Rice relay combination that beat out the Longhorns by a few inches in the 440 yard sprint relay. With the additional fraction of a point he carned in the mile realy, Holloway carried off high pont honors with 12 points.

Among the outstanding upsets of the meet was the victory of Fuentes, A. & M. miler, over Archer in the mile run, and Baldry's win in the javelin over Captain Hill Hodges of the Longhorns. Besides the Rice star's winning toss of 194 feet in the javelin, he captured the pole vault with a jump of 12 feet 9 inches.

Dischmen Continue Pennant Drive; Swamp Aggies, 11-4

Special to The Daily Texan

COLLEGE STATION, May 6.—A stampeding University of Texas Longhorn baseball team grounded out an 11 to 4 victory over the Texas Aggies on the Kyle Field diamond Friday afternoon. The game lasted nearly three hours and was finished in semi-darkness. Vernon Taylor, sophomore Steer hurler, kept the Cadets well under control. He fanned eleven men, walked only three and kept the Cadets' seven hits well scattered. "Bugga" Moon, Aggie starting twirler, allowed only three hits in eight frames, but was wild, walked six men and made four of his team's seven errors.

The Aggies took the lead in the first when Sweetie Davis knocked a home run over the left field fence. Three remaining batters were struck out.

Koy Honored

Texas tallied four times in the third, Howle walked and Blanton and Taylor got on Moon's muffs of their bunts, filling the sacks. Ankenman flew out to center, Baumgarten fouled out to first, and the Cadets breathed easier. Then up stepped Ernie Koy and clouted one over the left field fence for a homer and four runs.

The Steers added one each in the fifth and seventh, but had their big inning in the ninth when they garnered five runs off three hits, two walks, Blanton's hit by pitcher and two Aggie errors.

The Cadets counted their three remaining runs in the last three innings from five hits, two errors and two passed balls.

Each team scored one earned run. In the ninth with the bases loaded the Steers tried a triple steal. The Aggies held this move at bay for almost five minutes, and then all three Steers scored on Golasinski's error.

The two teams play here again Saturday.

Summary: Two base hits—Ankenman. Home runs—Davis, Koy. Sacrifices—Blanton, Taylor. Stolen bases—Ankenman 2.
